Meet Our FO EcoHousing Landscape Architect

Josephine (Jo) Proud of McProud & Associates is our project's landscape architect. Jo has lived in Nevada City since 1980, when she began her practice. Just like us, she prefers a collaborative design process in her work, creating spaces that are both functional and environmentally sustainable.

Our landscaping at FO EcoHousing will feature native and drought-tolerant vegetation such as wild lilac, currant and dwarf pomegranate - all in tune with our area's climate. Deciduous canopy shade trees located throughout our site will provide shade to our homes and parking areas during the summer and welcome light and warmth in during the cooler winter months. Community garden beds will allow us to harvest fresh, local produce for common dinners. Green spaces will provide habitat for creatures like native birds, of particular interest to many in our group who are avid birders!

ensure most of their produce is distributed within 10 miles. You may spot Jo around town with a cabbage over her shoulder.

Congrats to the Tanforans!

On June 12, 1966, Frank Tanforan and Linda Holzer were married in St. Thomas Aquinas Cathedral at Reno, Nevada. The location was special for Linda as it was where her parents were married on New Year's Eve, 1937.

On June 12, 2016, Frank and Linda celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a family dinner at their home in Sacramento. Attending were their daughter Jennifer with her husband Scott Sorensen, son Chris, and granddaughter Vivian.

Frank and Linda toasted each other, as they did 50 years ago, even using the same champagne glasses that they used at their wedding reception. And no! Photographs showing how they looked 50 years ago are not being shared.

Reaching a 50-year anniversary is certainly deserving of celebration! We look forward to sharing important milestones, big and small, in our Clubhouse soon - cake and champagne anyone?
